50.	Fidelity is one of the best poems of Wordsworth. In this poem he describes the place of tragedy vividly. The shepherd hears the cry of a dog or a fox from far, also sees a stirring in a brake of fern. He moves ahead and sees a cove — a recess. There he sees a precipice in front, and a tarn below, could hear the leaping of fish — the only cheering sound. The crag repeats the raven's croak. The mist hangs like an enormous barrier. OR This lesson brings about the truth of life which Baldwin held it so sacredly, all through his 35 years of service. His son, daughter and even wife persuaded him to yield to Gresham for hundred thousand dollars. Gresham was not surprised when he refused the money. Marshal, the president of Third national comes home to invite him to his organisation. He tells the wife that he honours and respects him highly for his honesty. Here the truth is revealed.		4
